Residents Approve of Zoning Change

Business on Montgomery Ave. Favored by Majority at Public Hearing.

THE VOTE WAS 26 TO 3

Strong sentiment in favor of the petition to change Montgomery Avenue to a business zone was manifested at the public hearing held in Council Chamber last Friday night.

Over fifty-five people were present at the hearing, in addition to all Councilmen but one. It was conducted by Clifford W. Bates, chairman of the Ordinance and Law Committee.

At a vote taken at the conclusion of the hearing, twenty-six Narberth property owners were in favor of the change and three opposed. The petition was signed by twenty-nine property owners on Montgomery Avenue in the section in question from Haverford to Narberth Avenues.

Before opening the meeting to public discussion Mr. Bates pointed out that a change in the zoning classification to permit business would be followed by increased assessments where the character of the property is changed, and that certain restrictions

New Organist at All Saints Church Has Had Varied and Colorful Career

Frederick Hall, Well Known in Musical Circles, Is Former Choirmaster and Organist of Christ Church, Philadelphia.

By ROBERT M. CAMERON

In the election early this season of Frederick Hall as organist and director of the choir of All Saints Church, Wynnewood, the Main Line section may count a distinguished addition to its roster of artistic talent.

Of well set, vigorous physique, in the prime of life, Mr. Hall is in many ways anything but the "typical" musician in appearance, manner and in the diversity of subjects in which he is interested, outside his professional activities. Upon meeting him for the first time, the average person would be more likely to mistake him for a lecturer, a business executive, or perhaps a doctor than a man unusually gifted in an art as emotional and delicate as music.

Possessed of a keen sense of humor, and a seemingly unlimited stock of funny stories, he will jump in a flash from the relation of some comical anecdote to the discussion of a variety of such subjects as world politics, medicine, ecclesiastical architecture,

America Need Not Fear Competition From Russia, Speaker Tells Rotarians

"The Russian five-year plan is one of the most momentous economic experiments in the history of the world," said Dr. Karl Scholz, professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, speaking before the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Monday night.

Avoiding any reference to the Soviet's political or religious program, Dr. Scholz gave a brief and illuminating review of the efforts of the Russians to industrialize their nation, a plan which is to take five years, and which will involve the investment of thirty-two billion dollars.

"The difficulties may be understood," the speaker said, "when it is realized that 80 per cent. of the population is peasant—just a step from slavery—and that the plan involves an effort to apply twentieth century methods to seventeenth century minds."

The people are being nearly starved to create the capital for this gigantic undertaking. Money for the building of power plants, railroads and industries is being raised by the government largely by compelling the citizen to tighten his belt. The money is coming from people with an average income of less than $100 per year. The standard of living has been pushed down to nearly the subsistence minimum, and while there are protests and murmurs, the idea is to continue the Reduction of Montgomery County taxes from four to three mills, proposed by the Board of Commissioners, may be taken, if you care for the prescription, as the first tidbit prepared by the Republican "organization" in its hope to keep Johnson men in the "row offices" at next fall's election. Preceded by lowering of taxes in several townships and boroughs (Lower Merion from twelve to ten mills; Narberth from nineteen to eighteen mills) and coupled with a program of public improvements, it doesn't look like the former Secretary of Revenue is ready to retire. Taxes are one of the two things that are sure. Lowering of them is also one of the surest ways to continuance in power. Meanwhile expect perfect harmony to reign among Lower Merion's triumvirate. It's that kind of year.

No little local interest surrounds the February 16 courtmartial in Philadelphia of our West Chester neighbor and former Haverford School student, Brigadier General Smedley Darlington Butler. Frequently a visitor in this section which is conspicuously dotted with the homes of army, navy, marine officers, the general returns to the scene of his troubles as Director of Public Safety. The Mussolini incident recalls those never-to-be-forgotten words the petty officers used to tell the boys in wartime: "You ain't supposed to think; you're in the service now."

An Associated Press despatch telling that Captain Isaac E. Emerson, head-ache potion manufacturer, left an estate of twenty millions indicates, as can nothing else, that the effects of a morning after are more than a legend.

William H. Wilson, suburban realtor, in addressing the Philadelphia Real Estate Board, predicts an upward swing in business. May we hope that it's a real haymaker, starting from the shoelaces and landing squarely on the jaw of pessimism.

Just as the country is about to stop fidgeting and to perk up in an expectant attitude, someone has to start talk of an extra session of Congress and payment of the bonus fourteen years ahead of time.

Express Thanks

The family of Christian Gross, 322 Dudley Avenue, Narberth, acknowledge with grateful appreciation the kind expressions of sympathy of their friends and neighbors upon the occasion of their recent bereavement.

Narberth Theatre Notes

Fast and furious comedy of a rough and ready variety is the feature of "The Life of the Party," playing at Narberth's theatre this Friday and Saturday. Winnie Lightner, Irene Delroy and Charles Butterworth make a comedy trio of mirth-provoking proportions. The story was by Melville Crossman. Several interesting short features enhance the program.

Next Monday and Tuesday, Narberth will play "DuBarry, Woman of Passion," in which Norma Talmadge has a speaking part, well assisted by Conrad Nagel and William Farnum.

"The Gorilla," hair-raising and amusing thriller of the stage and silent cinema, makes its all-talking appearance in Narberth next Wednesday and Thursday. The capable cast includes Lila Lee, Joe Frisco, Harry Gribbon and Walter Pidgeon.

At last Saturday's performance of "Just Imagine," the Narberth Theatre had one of the biggest crowds of its existence.

Egyptian Theatre News

Good music, funny comedy and a fanciful story of Earth and Mars in 1980 distinguish "Just Imagine," the Egyptian Theatre's attraction this Friday and Saturday. El Brendel and Maureen O'Sullivan are in the cast and the music is by DeSylva, Brown and Henderson.

Not so bad as its title is "A Lady's Morals," the story of Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale, and P. T. Barnum, which will play at the Egyptian next Monday and Tuesday. Introduced to fandom is Grace Moore young and beautiful operatic prima donna. Wallace Beery plays the showman.

On Wednesday and Thursday Helen Twelveteens, aided by Ricardo Cortez and Phillips Holmes, will entertain in an exciting story of gold digging in Havana—"Her Man."

"Min and Bill"—Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery—will appear in their fun-hit at the Egyptian next Friday and Saturday.

This Saturday's matinee or children's party, by the way, will see the start of a new serial, "The Spell of the Circus," in which Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. has the leading role.

Choral Broadcasts Sunday

At 3:30 P. M. this Sunday, over station WLIT, the Bala-Cynwyd Community Choral will broadcast for half an hour many of the songs which will feature its "Musical Bridge" which will be given next Friday and Saturday nights at the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club.

Child Health Center Busy During January

Total of 48 Examinations Made;
Seven Were New Cases.

ELECTION BY MANAGERS

During the past month at the Narberth Child Health Centre the nurses' assistants have been doing full time. The winter months are anticipated as vacation time for volunteer workers at a baby centre, but due to fair weather and a growing appreciation of the service of the centre, the attendance totaled forty-one registered cases and seven new cases. Of the forty-eight examinations made six were referred to physicians or hospitals.

The centre offers free health examination to children of pre-school age. Not only will those attending receive scientific attention from physician and nurse, but a welcome and a smile from the aides where baby and mother may wait. Conferences are held every Wednesday from 2 to 3 o'clock in the Woman's Club room, Elm Hall.

The regular assistants on duty during January were Mrs. Leon Melcher, four times; Mrs. Walter Odiorne, four times; Mrs. William Knauer, three times; Mrs. A. C. Farmer, three times, and Mrs. J. W. Darville, once. Mrs. C. Starr and Miss Mary Hudson both acted once as substitutes.

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Managers held Tuesday the following officers were elected for this year: Dr. George A. Sloan, president; Mrs. William C. Newman, vice president, and Mrs. Charles H. Shaw, secretary and treasurer. Meetings of the Board of Managers will be held hereafter on the first Wednesday of each month at 4:30 P. M., this falling on the day the centre is open.

'Musical Bridge' Will Be Given by Choral in Cynwyd Next Week-End

Next Friday and Saturday nights, February 13 and 14, will see the annual performance of Bala-Cynwyd's Community Choral at the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club, Levering Mill Road and Bala Avenue. It will be in the nature of a "Musical Bridge," during which four periods of time will be bridged by songs.

Many of the songs will be broadcast by the Choral at 3:30 P. M. this Sunday over station WLIT for thirty minutes.

Directed by Henry Hotz, of Wynnewood, the fifty-some trained men's and women's voices have rehearsed their numbers on Monday evenings since November 3. The selections will include American, Indian, Colonial, Negro and modern songs—such as "By the Waters of Minnetonka," "Indian Dawn," "I'll Sing a Song of Araby," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Heav'n, Heav'n," "Listen to the Lambs," "Dawn of Love," "When Love Awakes" and Rachmaninoff's "Creation Hymn."

Some of the numbers will be sung as accompaniment to dancing, by Miss Barbara Tuke. Soloists will include Mrs. Upton Slingluff, Mrs. J. Everett Bacon and Mrs. John D. Rockwell, sopranos, and J. Samuel Stephenson, Jr., William Tuttle and T. A. Elwood, who will sing a men's trio number.

Tickets for the performances, at $1, may be obtained from members of the Choral or King's Pharmacy, at the Cynwyd station.

Dancing will follow the performance on both nights.

High School Notes

On Thursday evening the High School Cafeteria was turned into a clubroom for the faculty, for at that time was held a faculty card party. Bridge prevailed for the evening and a good time was had by all. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert acted as host and hostess.

After much deliberation and discussion over the class of '32 rings, they were finally ordered last week. Both rings and pins still may be purchased from the committee at $5.00 and $2.50 apiece, respectively.

Members of the commercial classes of the school carried on the secretarial work in the principal's office during the time the school secretary, Miss Ballingall, was confined to her home in Narberth because of illness.

On Friday evening, January 30, the Lower Merion swimming team traveled to Coatesville for a meet with the Coatesville High School. Although there was fine work on the part of Phil Pitcher, Robert Riter, Gordon Colket, Harry Essley and Douglas Robertson, the Coatesville boys the meet by a score of 42-25. Phil Pitcher won a first place in the diving by a narrow margin, and Douglas Robertson, the next year's football manager, won the 220-yard freestyle, one of the fastest times ever made in that pool.

On Monday, February 2, there was a different story to tell about the swimming team. In a meet with Radnor High School in the Norristown Y. M. C. A. pool, Coach Cranmer's boys finished victorious by a score of 45-21. Embury Rucker and Phil Pitcher were the high scorers for the afternoon, each counting up eight points. Embury Rucker, besides winning a second place in the 220-yard swim, won the first place in the diving; and Phil Pitcher won the first place in the 100 and second place in the diving. Other winners of the afternoon were Harry Essley in the 100-yard breast stroke, and Captain James Donnelly in the back stroke.

Rehearsals for the three plays of the annual play contest to be held in the High School Auditorium have started, and each group is strenuously striving to present the best play, which will win the trophy.

Tomorrow night, February 7, the Senior Class will present its annual dance in the gymnasium of the Junior High School at 9 o'clock. The famous Ritz-Carlton Grill Room Orchestra, with its enviable reputation for jazz and life, will furnish the music for this memorable occasion. Tickets may be purchased from the committee by those other than members of the Senior Class at $1.50 a couple.

Cynwyd Girl Honored at Goucher College

Miss Mary C. Philips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Philips, of Bryn Mawr Avenue, Cynwyd, who was a golden eagle member of the Cynwyd Girl Scout Troop, has just been elected to the much coveted position at Goucher College, Baltimore, as chairman of the Sophomore class team to contest in the annual "Sing Song," which will be held on February 13. Each class will prepare a serious and a humorous composition, then compete to determine the best lyric and rendition. The winning class will receive a loving cup. Miss Philips has continued her interest in scouting and is the captain of one of the crack troops in the Maryland city.

Hold Contests

The Sub-Juniors of the Women's Community Club of Narberth held a meeting in Elm Hall on Monday evening. Kitty Jane Miller and Mrs. R. H. Muller conducted a spelling bee and "Ask Me Another." The prize for the spelling bee was awarded to Miss Dora Miller. For "Ask Me Another," the prize was won by Miss Evelyn Hansell. Miss Winifred James was the hostess. Afterwards the girls enjoyed the dancing.

Just Comment

One of Abraham Lincoln's characteristics was that he possessed a strong sense of humor. Fortunately for him, and for the country, he had the knack of pat expression in applying this humor which generally smacked of the backwoods. What he said was picturesque enough to be remembered and logical enough to be convincing. It is no idle assertion that, had he not cultivated and employed his humor, he probably would not have been able to enforce his policies. He might have broken down, indeed, under the everpressing weight of his burdens.

These outstanding facts, with respect to the statesman whose birthday anniversary is now at hand, are recalled in view of the need of humor and humorous expression on the part of our public men today. Good things are being uttered by our leaders in the financial, educational and governmental worlds, but these utterances are so lacking in robust quality, so commonplace, so unaccompanied by Lincolnian raciness of phrase that they fail to stick in the mind.

In this age, with so much going on around us, with so much to divert the mind from the vital issues, there are fewer needs so great as that for men who can think as accurately as Lincoln and press home their thoughts with homely similes.

Just the possession of a sense of humor, without the art of using it, would be a wonderful thing for multitudes of public men. For instance, what if our representatives and officials should suddenly acquire the power of seeing themselves as others see them? They would be able to do that if they had Lincoln's precious quality, and untold benefit would at once accrue to their constituencies. Not only is there a humor that makes the world laugh, but there is a deeper, stronger, more lasting humor that makes the world think.

General James F. Fry was stationed at Washington, D. C., during the Civil War as Provost Marshal of the War Department. As may be imagined, his duties were not always agreeable. On one occasion he found himself endeavoring to placate an angry Governor who had gone to the National Capitol with blood in his eye because he deemed the quota of troops excessive that had been demanded from his State.

General Fry at his office tried to quiet the Governor, who, however, finally rushed off to the White House.

"As soon as I could see President Lincoln," said General Fry later, "I exclaimed: 'Mr. President, I am very anxious to learn how you disposed of the Governor. He went to your office from the War Department in a towering rage. I suppose you found it necessary to make large concessions to him, as he returned from you entirely satisfied.'"

"Oh, no," he replied. "I did not concede anything. You know how that Illinois farmer managed the big log that lay in the middle of the field. To the inquiries of his neighbors, one Sunday, he announced that he had got rid of the big log."

"Got rid of it?" said they, "how did you do it? It was too big to haul out, too knotty to split, and too wet and soggy to burn. What did you do?"

"Well, now, boys," replied the farmer, "if you won't divulge the secret, I'll tell you how I got rid of it. I PLOUGHED AROUND IT."

"Now," said Lincoln, "don't tell anybody, but that's the way I got rid of the Governor. I ploughed around him. But it took me three mortal hours to do it, and I was afraid every moment he'd see what I was at."

"No stores in Narberth"—That would seriously inconvenience most householders here. Why not extend your knowledge of the borough's business houses and aid them to extend their service to you?

The Editor's Column

It looks as though an amendment to the zoning ordinance will be forthcoming to permit business on Narberth's side of Montgomery Avenue. Public sentiment, as expressed at the hearing on the matter last Friday, leaves Council little to do except decide upon what restrictions in the way of setbacks, etc., are necessary. . . . True, there was opposition to the proposed change, but it was in such a decided minority that their case looks doomed.

The whole matter of zoning is a most difficult problem. Time was in the suburbs when such a thing was totally unnecessary. But with the growth of population and the increase of stores and business establishments to meet its needs, those who looked upon the suburbs as primarily a residential section saw that some allotment of territory would have to be made to prevent hit-and-miss juxtaposition of residences and business. Hence zoning, with its division of territory into business and residential zones.

Narberth was one of the first municipalities in the region to adopt a zoning ordinance, it being passed in 1924. It is only natural that such a piece of legislation should have to be revised from time to time. None can predict the future with certainty.

The trouble with this Montgomery Avenue business is that the street has been spoiled for residential purposes by the heavy traffic and the creation of a business zone on the other side of the thoroughfare by Lower Merion in its zoning ordinance of 1927. The residents on the Narberth side were not consulted in this matter and, if they were, it probably would not have affected the course of events. But there it is, and it seems that the only thing Narberth can do to equalize the situation and give its property owners an even break is to permit business along its side of the pike. As several gentlemen pointed out at the public hearing the fact that Narberth's side of the street is zoned for residences precludes any chance of their being able to dispose of their properties advantageously for business uses.

Another question which should have the serious consideration of those who have the interests of the borough at heart is whether the creation of another business district on Montgomery Avenue is a desirable thing. It is doubtful if such a district would serve an appreciable number of its citizens or act as a stimulus to the existing business sections. What if residents of other streets should decide they wished to change their zoning classification to a business district in hopes of increasing the value of their property? What would become of the borough as a residential community? It may be argued that other sections of the borough are not suited for business developments but the same argument may be applied to Montgomery Avenue.

Personally we think the only one who may reap any immediate benefit from a change in the zoning on Montgomery Avenue will be the gentleman who wishes to erect a gas station upon his property there. Whether it will benefit any of the other property owners remains to be seen. One thing that can be counted on, however, is increased assessments for any properties which are devoted to business.

Mothers of scouts in the Narberth Troop we see have organized to help raise funds to enable the troop to carry on its activities. There isn't much the women can't do when they turn their hand to it, and if anyone can do the job they can.

Conservation Exhibit

Main Lines

WE SIN AGAIN! This time we are quoted in no less a metropolitan newspaper than the New York World and in the column of F. P. A. himself. Here it is in all our enormity:

The Daughter of a Hundred Earls, the League of Nations and Perhaps Italian. From the Ardmore (Pa.) Main Liner.

"Possessed of a voice of uncommon range and flexibility, Miss Braslau sings with perfect diction in her native English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Russian and Hebrew."

We hope you enjoy our comprehensiveness as much as we did, even though we are the guilty ones.

But that is not the worst; while we are feeling in the mood that an honest confession is good for the soul and perhaps for a laugh or two, we might bring to the public eye all our bonehead and funny errors. That "all" that means all that we are aware of. Sometime a few years ago in Slips That Pass in the Night, in the Literary Digest, the following appeared: "At its last meeting the Narberth Board of Trade urged council to enforce the illegal sale of liquor in Narberth." Did it start a boom?

Another famous one was: "Lost—Long red lady's pocketbook! This swept the country, carrying the name of Narberth with it wherever it went. Humorists and wits commented upon it until both the pocketbook and the long red lady were completely worn out."

Just the other day, in a report of a meeting, the article read, "at the Squeaker's table." We've all felt so much that way in our first speech that we can appreciate the truth of it. We weren't, however, casting any aspersions on the lady's vocal abilities. All of which brings us to the real point of this little confession—how many stages a newspaper has to go through before it is finally printed. Just to illustrate: A story was phoned in reporting a talk on "Flags." The true version should have been the raven and orange banner of the Vikings. Instead, imagine our blushes when, much to our surprise, we read the next Friday in the MAIN LINER, "the raisin and orange banner," etc. Must have been some kick to that!

But to go back to newspaper issuing. First, the story is reported; the editor reads it, making necessary changes in spelling and punctuation; the linotype operators set it, spelling and punctuating as they think it should be done (forgive us, Sammy and Elmer); the proof reader adds his ideas on both spelling and punctuation; the makeup men put the type in the form that makes the printed page. Behold! Then the result is the article or story as you see it.

Here is one typographical error that didn't get in. We caught this, we are proud to say: "The Ladies' Auxiliary was hell at the home of Mrs. ———"

To go back to F. P. A.'s caustic wit about the daughter of a hundred Earls, etc., it's a fact that in nine generations each person has 512 grandparents.

We do not exactly recall what the groundhog said about the weather Monday when he looked about. But what does it matter? The Main Line on groundhog day received its sure sign of an early spring, and we can all order our flower seeds with full confidence. Ardmore old-timers have a saying, "When a certain popular notary public appears on the street without a hat, spring is just around the corner."

Knowing this, we posted our handsome self across the street from the Merion Title Monday and watched. Scarcely had the noon sun reached Lancaster Avenue when the smiling and HATLESS head of Bill Chambers appeared around the corner.

MRS. JOHNS HOPKINS

of "Tavistock," Wynnewood, who is one of the patronesses of the Junior League Play, "The Blue Bird," which was given last week-end at the Walnut Street Theatre.

The newest thing on the social calendar planned for the quiet months of February and March are the "Little Season" dances, which are a delightful solution in the way of entertaining not too formally but yet will be an interesting way. On February 14 and 28 and April 18 there will be dances at the Warwick, with music from a snappy dance orchestra beginning promptly at 9 o'clock.

Around the dance floor in the large, attractive ballroom, tables, large and small, will be placed, and guests can have light supper served there if they wish. Among the patronesses are Mrs. S. S. Naudain Duer, Mrs. Stanley Griswold Flagg, Jr., Mrs. Thomas S. Gates, Mrs. Joseph M. Gazzam, Mrs. George Horace Lorimer and Mrs. Charles Stewart Wurts.

Another set of interesting afternoons will be those which are called "Art Alliance Afternoons." These will be given on the following dates on Thursdays, February 12 and 26, March 12 and 26, and April 9 and April 23. There will either be music or a talk by some distinguished figure in the world of art, and tea will be served afterwards in the beautiful members' room of the club.

Organist at All Saints Has Had Colorful Career

which the listener can grasp and understand readily. Perhaps his outstanding personal characteristic, and certainly his most definite attitude toward music, is his keenness for the "human" element. He takes the scientific side of his music very seriously, but the human angle is obviously of much greater importance in his artistic philosophy.

Defines "Ideal" of Music

When interviewed early this week at All Saints Church, upon being asked what he regarded as the highest quality, the "ideal" of music, he replied with a positiveness that showed the strongest degree of inner conviction: "The quality of touching human emotions. That is the supreme test. Does it touch people's hearts?" Elaborating, Mr. Hall enunciated his definition of music itself, as follows: "Music is the means of swaying and expressing human emotions, first, last and all the time. Just insofar as it does these two things—beautifully, thrillingly, gorgeously, gloriously—it IS music, and just insofar as it fails it is NOT music."

This prompted the question, "How about technique then; how vital is it?" "Certainly technique is absolutely vital, but it is only a means to an end. Technique in composition, technique in presentation—both are indispensable. Both the construction and the outward workmanship of a great building, whether it is a skyscraper or a cathedral, are vital. But the supreme test is, how well does it serve human needs, practically or inspirationally? The same applies to music, and as emotional expression is one of the great fundamental cravings of the entire human race I hold that music is great only in proportion as it satisfies this universal hunger of the soul."

Mr. Hall comes to All Saints Church with the background of thirty-two years of unusually active professional work which has brought him high prestige not only as an organist, but also as composer, conductor, critic and journalist. Both his father and grandfather being organists, Mr. Hall inherited his chosen profession somewhat as a family tradition, considerably over a century being comprised in the musical careers of grandfather, father and son.

Grandfather Well-Known Organist

His grandfather, John Hall, was a well-known organist in England, where he played at Wybunbury Parish Church, Cheshire, for thirty-four years. His father, Walter E. Hall, nationally-famous organist at the World's Fair of Chicago, was successively organist of St. John's Cathedral, Denver; the Chicago Auditorium, the Church of the Epiphany, Chicago, and Trinity Cathedral, Pittsburgh, also of the Carnegie Libraries at Braddock and Homestead, and for thirteen years organist of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra under Frederic Archer, Emil Paur and Victor Herbert.

Frederick Hall, born in Denver, Colorado, in 1885, grew up in this musical atmosphere, and had the advantage of training from earliest childhood, according to the standards of the best of the English Cathedral, his father having studied, besides with other masters, under the tutelage of Sir Joseph Bridge, of Chester Cathedral, brother of Sir Frederick Bridge, of Westminster Abbey, London. Frederick Hall studied for a time under Edwin H. Lemare, the famous English virtuoso organist, and for several years he studied piano and interpretation with Beveridge Webster, pupil of Leschetitzky.

At the early age of thirteen, Mr. Hall commenced his career as assistant organist of Trinity Cathedral, Pittsburgh. At 15 he became organist of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Sewickley, perhaps the most fashionable suburban church in the Pittsburgh district. At 22 he succeeded his father at Trinity Cathedral, Pittsburgh, as organist and master of the chorists. Later he came East, and was for four years at historic "Old" Christ Church, Philadelphia; for fourteen months at St. James' Church, Atlantic City, and for four years at the "Old" First Presbyterian Church, South Orange, N. J., where he succeeded Dr. Alexander Russell, organist of Princeton University. When in Philadelphia Mr. Hall had charge of the music for the Roosevelt campaign, for which he organized the Washington Chorus of 200 male voices; and for two years he was musical critic with the Philadelphia "Press," then one of the leading papers of the city.

During the war Mr. Hall did extensive work as Y. M. C. A. song leader, and had charge of both the executive and musical organization of the "Speed Up" program for the Industrial Relations Section of the Aircraft Bureau of Production, War Department, in over six hundred factories in the New York division. While in New York Mr. Hall also contributed to the New York "Evening Post."

After the war, in addition to playing the organ in moving pictures, Mr. Hall did a considerable amount of recital work, and the playing of demonstration concerts for one of the large organ manufacturers. Seven years ago he became organist of the ultra-fashionable Bethesda-by-the-Sea Church, Palm Beach. Mr. Hall was at Palm Beach for three years, and organized the noted "Cloister Choir" of fifty voices, which included many singers of national reputation, among them being George Dunstan, basso soloist of the Boston Opera; Mildred Rogers Dunstan, contralto soloist with the same organization; George Sheffield, tenor, who toured two seasons with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra; Gladys Grant and Maybelle Woodruff, of New York; Grace Riheladaffer, of Pittsburgh, and Alexis Tcherkassky, Russian bass, and member of the Russian nobility, who sang numerous recitals in Palm Beach under the patronage of Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury.

After this Mr. Hall was for nearly three years in charge of the music for the First Congregational Church, Lake Worth, the fastest-growing church in Florida, where the vested choir achieved a unique position in the musical life of the vicinity of the Palm Beaches under his direction. Two years ago Mr. Hall moved to Miami, where he played one of the leading motion picture theatres, his work there receiving exceptional praise from Edgar Hay, musical critic of the Miami "Herald" in several signed articles analyzing his extempore performances in the creation of complete original scores for the main dramatic pictures.

Composed Anthem

In the composing field, Mr. Hall has an extensive list of works to his credit, including the Song of World Freedom, "Onward!" which the League to Enforce Peace adopted as the suggested "official" anthem of the League of Nations in its nationwide propaganda work years ago. The March of World Freedom, based upon the song, was played by the 125-piece military band of the West Point Military Academy when it acted as the guard of honor to the 27th Division, A. E. F., on the occasion of its homecoming parade up Fifth Avenue, New York. The same number was produced shortly afterwards, in its orchestral and choral form, with full symphony orchestra and chorus of 600 voices, by the Newark Musical Festival in its Peace Jubilee. In the field of church music, Mr. Hall has composed a number of anthems, including three dedicated to the Sons of the Revolution, and first performed in "Old" Christ Church, in connection with historical celebrations, besides several hymns for various special services, such as the laying of the cornerstone of the new Bethesda Church, Palm Beach, for which service the Spanish Ambassador brought a personal message from King Alphonso.

Since coming to All Saints Church here, Mr. Hall has produced a Christmas carol, "When Christ Was Born" and an anthem, "Like Silver Lamps," both specially composed for the recent Christmas Eve service at All Saints, besides an anthem, "Jesus, My Strength, My Hope," first sung two weeks ago on the tenth anniversary of Dr. Gibson Bell as rector of All Saints, and inscribed to him and Mrs. Bell in honor of that event. Mr. Hall has other numbers upon which he is working, which he plans to present later this spring.

Mr. Hall also has the distinction of being the first man in America to inaugurate community singing among the Quakers, which he did during the war, amid the beautiful surroundings of the Buck Hills Fall settlement in the Poconos.

Gave Atlantic City Recitals

In connection with his Atlantic City activities, Mr. Hall gave a series of sixty-four instrumental recitals with organ and string quartet, of which Louis W. Cline, of New York, at that time music critic of the Atlantic City "Press," commented that "He has given to the music of this city a distinct upward trend and his programs have been a source of musical satisfaction to all those who enjoy a comprehensive and exhaustive reading of the great scores of the master composers. His recitals have supplied a quality of music which has made a distinct niche in the annals of this city."

The personnel of the string quartette Mr. Hall directed in a repertory of some 250 numbers during these concerts included: Louis Wolff, formerly concert master, Amsterdam Opera, Holland, later assistant concert master with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra under Gabrilowits; Rodion Mendeleitch, formerly conductor of the Odessa Orchestra, Russia, later conductor of Kosloff's Russian Ballet; Samuel Compton, former member of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, and pupil of Schradieck, and Marsden Brooks, star pupil of Jacques Renard, Damrosch's premier cellist. Mr. Brooks being offered the second chair post, next to Hans Kindler, of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, while playing for Mr. Hall. Also, Frank Nicoletta, virtuoso horn soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

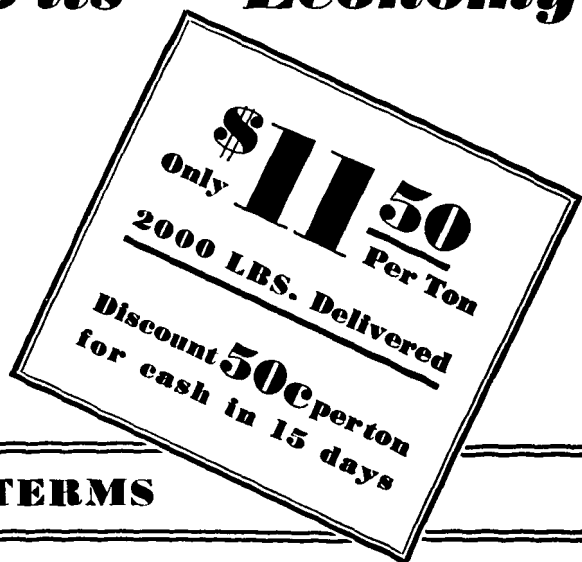

Included in the 250 numbers referred to were the Beethoven "First" and "Fifth" Symphonies, the Schubert "Unfinished," the Mozart "G minor," the Tchaikowsky "Marche Slav," the G minor Bruch Violin Concerto, the A minor Goltermann Cello Concerto, and the music of Haydn's "Passion" complete, in its original form—that is, instrumental, instead of choral. All these are counted as one number each in the catalogue of 250 numbers presented. Ninety were in manuscript arrangements made specially by Mr. Hall for these concerts. These included the Haydn "Passion" which Mr. Hall re-orchestrated complete, some 80 pages, octavo. As far as is known this was the only occasion when this work has been presented in this country in any other form than the choral, although for fifteen years it was always performed in the instrumental form only, in the Cadiz Cathedral, Spain, having been specially written for such usage, without text, the words being added by Haydn later.

During his connection with the South Orange church Mr. Hall had a different soloist every Sunday for the entire four years at that place. Included were Arthur Hackett and Royal Dadmon, of the Metropolitan Opera; Inez Barbour, wife of Henry Hadley, the composer; Lusinn Barakian, noted Armenian soprano; Sergei Radomsky, famous Russian basso; Worthe Faulkener, Grant Kimball and Amy Ellerman, contralto—the latter, said by Edison, to have the most perfect tone quality he had ever tested and analyzed in his many experiments with electric devices to photograph the tone vibrations and characteristics. This constant "procession" of changing weekly soloists totaled upward of 175—an average of forty-five per year for four years.

Mr. Hall is now residing in Narberth with his young wife, who was Miss Katherine Taylor, of Paris, Tennessee, and infant son, George Theodore, born last February. Mr. Hall also has a grown son by his first marriage, Frederick, Junior, a resident in Florida. Mr. Hall himself is a Florida enthusiast, though, of course he feels very much at home here, owing to his many years' residence in Pennsylvania before he went South.

Tells Where to Stop

—Courtesy Pennsylvania News.
Suburban trains on the Main Line are growing in length, frequently ranging from four to twelve or more cars. In order to guide the motorman in stopping his train at the right place for the convenience of passengers, markers on the tracks have been placed at all stations between Broad Street, Suburban Station and Paoli. Numerals are shown on the markers, each one designating the point at which to stop for a train of a like number of cars. The above picture shows the marker at Narberth Station for a six-car train.

Former Narberth Girl Engaged to Army Officer

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Duff, of Maplewood, N. J., formerly of Narberth, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen De Witt Duff, to Major John French Conklin, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A. Miss Duff was graduated from Narberth High School, Mount Holyoke College and later attended Cornell University and Radcliffe College. She has also studied at the Leland Powers School in Boston. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Major Conklin was graduated from the United States Military Academy with the class of 1915. He served with the Pershing Expedition in Mexico in 1916 and with the American Expeditionary Forces overseas during the World War. He is the son of the late Colonel John Conklin, who was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1884, and the grandson of the late Major General William H. French, of the class of 1837 of the same military academy. Major Conklin is now stationed at West Point as Assistant Professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy.

The wedding will take place in the spring.

In the Theater

Stage personalities of especial interest to the residents of the Main Line who appeared in Philadelphia theatres during the past two weeks were Otis Skinner, who one might term the dean of the American stage at the present, and a youngster, Katherine Hepburn, just beginning the long climb up the ladder of fame.

Otis Skinner, always a favorite in Philadelphia, has been, with his family, more or less identified with Philadelphia. His daughter, Cornelia Otis Skinner, studied at the Baldwin School and for several years at Bryn Mawr College. By the by, she is to give some of her characterizations at the college club soon. Otis Skinner has been appearing at the Garrick in "Marius," which concludes its run tomorrow night. With regret, critics and audience alike feel that the play is not worthy of Mr. Skinner's talents.

Katherine Hepburn, though a comparative newcomer to the stage, made a decided impression last week in "Art and Mrs. Bottle," that amusing though brittle comedy which Jane Cowl brought here or which brought Jane Cowl here, whichever way is correct. Miss Cowl as Mrs. Bottle dominated the piece with her charm and poise and expert acting. Undoubtedly she is one of the leading actresses in America today. But Katherine Hepburn as Judy Bottle, her intense and modern young daughter, impressed the audiences with her ability, her good looks and her charm. She brought to the part the right amount of freshness and spontaneity, yet with restraint saved it from any mawkishness. Like Miss Skinner, she was educated at Bryn Mawr, being graduated with the class of 1928. She played in Baltimore in a stock company for a short time; among other Broadway plays, she appeared in the cast of "Holiday" with Hope Williams; then she was chosen by Miss Cowl to play Judy Bottle, which she has done so creditably.

"Twelfth Night," in which Miss Cowl has appeared during her second week at the Forrest, has been a decided success. Miss Cowl herself makes a charming Viola. Walter Kingsford's version of Sir Toby Belch is judged one of the best ever seen in Philadelphia. Tomorrow evening is the last performance.

"Better Times," at the Chestnut Street Opera, is a better revue which brings a somewhat new idea to the theatre. The entire company is working on a co-operative plan to make the play a success and the results were pleasing. Louise Groody, Jack Pearl and Charles Purcell are headliners.

"Michael and Mary," at the Walnut, is continuing to delight the audiences. This play is the fifth offered by the Professional Players. Madge Kennedy as the heroine of the Milne comedy gives an excellent and sympathetic performance.

"Strictly Dishonorable" at the Broad is living up to its reputation of being one of the ten best plays of the year.

Fresh from successful runs are two plays which will open on Monday night. "Street Scene," by Elmer Rice, at the Forrest. This play was awarded the Pulitzer prize. Six hundred performances on Broadway is quite a run!

"Subway Express," a mystery thriller, comes to the Garrick direct from a four months' run in Chicago.

Speeders Arrested

Thirty-five arrests of motorists have been made recently through the speed traps set on the Lincoln Highway between Wayne and Paoli. Due to several serious accidents and property damage amounting to a substantial amount, these traps have been placed along the road. One motorist was clocked at seventy-seven miles an hour and several at sixty-eight miles an hour.

Young, Young Composer-Pianist, Will Entertain Woman's Club of Bala-Cynwyd at Its February 18 Meeting

Composer-Pianist

JOHN WESLEY YOUNG, B. A. of Wayne, who will play some of his own compositions for the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club February 18. Blind, he is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Temple University and the Leschetitzky School of Music.

An infant prodigy whose genius has not faded as he attained manhood is John Wesley Young, B. A., of Wayne, who will give a performance of some of his own compositions for the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club at its meeting Wednesday afternoon, February 18. Mr. Young, who is still in his middle twenties, appeared several years ago as a piano soloist with the symphony orchestras at the Stanley Theatre, Philadelphia, and the Capitol Theatre, New York. After his twelfth birthday the boy virtuoso made a concert tour of New York and the Middle West, and made numerous appearances in Philadelphia.

He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, and the Leschetitzky School of Music. His piano technique he attributes to Harold Nason, of that school. Mr. Nason studied with Theodore Leschetitzky, who born 1831 in Austria, and who was the celebrated contemporary of Liszt.

Mr. Young, who is the composer of a brilliant Octave Etude and other works for the piano and for violin, is at present dictating for manuscript his concerto for piano and orchestra, a work of surpassing beauty, and one that presents diverse and numerous technical difficulties to the performer. At the Bala-Cynwyd performance he plans to play portions of this concerto, in addition to groups of his shorter compositions for the piano.

Several of his songs will be sung by Mrs. Harold H. Happold, soprano, and Thomas A. Elwood, baritone, whom he will accompany on the piano. Characteristic of his songs is a group which he terms his "Hortus Siccus," and which have been termed as beautiful as any in our entire repertoire. Their titles include: "How Like the Flaming Rose Thou Art," "Lotus Blossom," and "Oh, Come, My Love," which commences: "Oh, come, my love, and be thou mine, for thou, my orchid, art divine."

Mr. Young writes the poetry to all of his vocal compositions—such as this:

"Lotus blossom, thou art fair,
Far too wonderful to share;
Thou art like the crescent moon,
That must rise, yet set too soon.
Thou art kind as thou art rare,
Noble as thou art divine.
All I have bequeath I thine,
Lovely lotus blossom fair."

Ones Rachmaninoff, who took an interest in the young composer-pianist and gave him of his time for occasional auditions and discussions, read Mr. Young's poem, "When I Find Love," and said, "You could never compose suitable music for that—it's in iambic pentameter, a form too difficult. . . . The young composer considered this a challenge, and wrote a pleasing song, which will be among those sung in Bala-Cynwyd February 18. The words follow:

"When I find love, the stars shall know
a queen
And whisper to the glow of crimson day;
A crooning zephyr will enchant its lay
And flood the firmament with rippling
green,
When I find love, when I find love.

When I find love the stars shall know
a king,
And whisper to the silent crystal
moon;
A butterfly will burst her silk cocoon
And bear my secret 'neath its purple wing,
When I find love, when I find love.

Mary Wigman Introduces New Dancing Trend

When Mary Wigman dances there is no music in the orchestra pit. In some of her numbers she uses almost no accompaniment at all. In fact, she follows no music in her dancing. All her accompanying instruments are located on the stage, in the "wings," to the left, and are manipulated and played by Hanns Hastings, pianist, and Meta Menz, both from Berlin. They read the cues and tempos from the dancer's eyes, not from her hands or feet.

Miss Wigman dances madly to the tumult of primitive instruments of many kinds—noises, most of them delightfully harmonious and fascinating, coming from the beating of drums of various kinds and sizes and of different tonal qualities—kettle drums, Chinese and Burmah gongs, brass basins, flutes, Indian tom-toms and Javanese gamelons. One instrument, called a Negro drum, is a sort of hollow piece of tree trunk, about two feet long and six inches in diameter.

When Miss Wigman dances to piano accompaniment she is using the music for her own ends. She employs no classical music. Instead, she invents or improvises music for herself. Occasionally she uses folk songs. The instruments she uses in her dancing are those that would be called outlandish by other dancers.

Her first performance will be at Bryn Mawr College on February 25. On Saturday, February 28, in the afternoon, she will appear at the Academy of Music.

The Pilots and Meteors are tied for the lead in the Narberth Inter-church bowling league with nine points each. Four teams won all their games last Friday. Raise Milk Prices

Announcement was made this week of an increase, from 23c a quart to 30c a quart, in the price of Penshurst Farm vitaminized milk. This is certified milk produced from cows which have been subjected to ultra-violet rays.

"Time Out"

By TOMMY MACKLIN

Haverford High School defeated Norristown High last Friday night by a two-point margin and then followed this victory up by holding Lower Merion to a close score Tuesday. Haverford will not finish first this year, but we believe they may next season. They have a fine group of players returning next fall who will be first-rate basketball players.

We have been saying officially and unofficially that Dave Watson is as good a centre as Cookenbach, and we double check it now. Dave scored five field goals against Lower Merion Tuesday.

Lower Merion missed Jim Turner considerably in the game with Haverford. Coach Bill Anderson moved John Eaton to center and Watson got started on his scoring spree. If Coach Bill wants to win his games by larger scores he had better keep Eaton at forward and find someone else to do the tap-off work. The speedy sharpshooter loses 100 per cent. of his effectiveness when he is at the pivot position.

With Turner out, Blair, Eaton and Pennypacker on the ailing list, the Tuesday roster looked pretty weak. The boys had enough early points to hold off the late rally of the Cornogmen.

The second team also came through for a win. That makes ten victories for the high school varsity, ten for the second team and twelve for the Junior High five. Each team has lost once: add them up and you have thirty-two victories and three defeats. Just about perfect, gentlemen.

We may see the Junior High team take its second crack on the chin tonight. The minions of Coach Fowler go to Harrisburg for a return game. The boys will travel by automobile and will return tonight after the game.

Mr. Snow, Mr. Fowler, Mr. Unger and Mr. Sear, of the faculty, will accompany the players on the trip. The boys who will take the journey are: Captain Ray Stanley, Harry Mitchell, Michael Iacovelli, Bob Matheys, Michael Zengel, Jack Hinchey, Tony Giorno, Alba Lomas, "Johnny" Johnson and Fred DelPizzo. Managers McDewitt and Herwig will take care of the equipment.

Looking down the column of the various leagues, we find that of those you will be most interested in, the same teams who were in the lead this time last year, are again leading the race.

In the city, West Philadelphia and Overbrook are in the lead, Lansdowne is topping the Suburban B loop, tied with Media, Collingdale is on top of the C group. Allentown and Hazleton are ahead of the pack in the Eastern Pennsylvania circuit, and Reading and Steelton are showing the way in Central Pennsylvania outfit. In our own territory Lower Merion is again showing the others the correct way to the heights of victory. Friends' Central is leading the Inter-Ac League, a spot that is somewhat new to her.

Radnor used her low ceiling to advantage in a one-point victory over Lansdowne last week. Something ought to be done about it, but there is no remedy. School Boards should be figuratively shot at sunset for allowing gyms like the Radnor basketball court to be perpetrated on the growing youth of our country. Another three feet to the height of the thing and the situation would be O. K. As it is, neither the Radnor team, nor any of the visiting outfits, can play basketball in it. It's just a game of push and shove.

Getting back to the Maroon contingent again, we almost forgot the fine game at Upper Darby last Friday night after the Haverford fracas on Tuesday. These games happen so fast we can't keep up with them.

Over at Upper Darby Jim Turner played just about the greatest game of his short career. Every man on Anderson's team played great ball that night. They had to, to win.

Up to the Haverford game on Tuesday only fifteen field goals had been scored on the Lower Merion star guards, Wynn and Bradford, during the entire season. Not the slightest bit bad, eh what?

John Pennypacker piled up twenty-one points in the Haverford game. What a whale of a good man that boy can be every now and then. They needed his points, too, with his high scoring teammate out of the picture at center.

Bob Blair is filling in nicely as substitute forward. Bob would be a star if he could play every game. It is tough for him that he lacks a couple of inches to put him on the same level with Pennypacker and Eaton.

The Maroon will need a rabbit's foot to win that game tonight up at Norristown.

Wasn't that Syracuse game a thriller? Penn played a whale of a good game to hold that parcel of perfection, E. Katz, to only a handful of field goals.

Must be off to Harrisburg. Abyssinia.

Basketball Tonight

St. Margaret's Boys' Club will play Doyle's Nurseries, of Berwyn, in the Narberth School gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock. The Berwyn team is composed of members of the Berwyn baseball team of the Main Line League. No admission is charged and everybody is invited to come and see a fast game of basketball.

L. M. Junior High Football Schedule Planned

Lower Merion Junior High School has announced its football schedule for the next fall. During the past two years the school has maintained the unusual record of having received but one defeat and at the hands of the reserve team of Swarthmore Preparatory. Next year's schedule is a heavy one, including all of the first-class suburban Junior High Schools and the first of a two-year agreement with the Edison Junior High School, of Harrisburg.

October 2, Ridley Park Jr. H. S., at Ardmore; October 8, Collingdale Jr. H. S., at Ardmore; October 16, Pottstown Jr. H. S., at Pottstown; October 23, West Chester Jr. H. S., at West Chester; October 30, Haverford Jr. H. S., at Ardmore; November 6, Edison Jr. H. S., at Harrisburg; November 12, Radnor Jr. H. S., at Radnor; November 20, Upper Darby Jr. H. Military Academy Has Hard Baseball Schedule

The hardest baseball schedule in the history of Valley Forge Military Academy has been prepared for the Cadets this spring and is composed of fourteen games.

Sergeant L. E. Humphries, athletic director and coach of the diamond squad, looks for a good season despite the inroads made in his material by the recent three-year ruling put into effect at the Academy.

The complete schedule is as follows: April 11, Williamson Trade, away; April 15, Villanova Frosh, away; April 18, Ursinus Frosh, pending; April 25, Blair Academy, away; May 2, Allentown Prep, home; May 8, Villanova Frosh, home; May 9, Williamson Trade, home; May 13, Perkiomen Prep, away; May 16, Allentown Prep, away; May 18, Drexel J. V.'s, away; May 20, The Hun School, away; May 23, Brown Prep, home; May 27, Perkiomen Prep, home; May 29, Ursinus Frosh, pending.

as to setbacks from the property line to allow for parking, and as to the type of buildings would doubtless be included in any amendment to the zoning ordinance.

Burgess Henry A. Frye added that no change could be made in assessments until 1933 at the time of the next triennial assessment unless the character of the property was changed.

Carl B. Metzger, speaking in favor of the change, pointed out how conditions have changed on Montgomery Avenue since the adoption of the Borough's Zoning Ordinance in 1924. "There was practically no business anywhere on Montgomery Avenue then, except a little on the corner at Cynwyd," said Mr. Metzger. "Now, in Ardmore especially, a thriving development has sprung up on Montgomery Avenue." A change in the zoning is needed, Mr. Metzger concluded, to permit the selling of Montgomery Avenue properties for business if the opportunity arises.

Residents who spoke against the proposed change stated that it would depreciate nearby property, "we don't need another gas station," stores backing up against nearby property would depreciate value, and that a period of depreciation in property values followed a change in zoning.

Other residents, speaking in favor of the change, pointed out that the Narberth side of the pike was already spoiled for residential use due to stores and businesses on the other side and due to the traffic. The sentiment of a good number present was expressed by Frank A. Schrepfer judging from the applause that followed his remarks when he said that he "disliked tying the hands of the property owners who might sell their properties for business purposes." The opinion was voiced by J. Baird Cladwell, sponsor of the petition, that a change to a business zone would increase property values from $50 per front foot as at present to $300 per front foot.

Rotarians Hear of Russia's Industries

starvation method until rebellion is feared.

Other capital is being raised by a few governmental loans, and by exports. It is these exports, the speaker pointed out, which have caused some American industries to cry out that the Soviet is "dumping" goods.

"It must not be forgotten," Dr. Scholz said, "that Russia can not buy from us unless she can export to create the money wherewith to pay us. Last year the United States imported only about thirty-two million dollars in goods from Russia, but sold her 149 million dollars' worth of industrial materials."

The principal exports, he said, were furs and manganese, with some lumber and coal. The speaker claimed that these exports did not represent serious price competition, as Russia is anxious to get every dollar it can. The importing of some of these products is actually to America's advantage, for the use of Russian furs, manganese and lumber will tend to conserve our own diminishing natural resources against future need, and thus hold off the evil day when the United States will be dependent on other countries for such products.

"America need not fear competition from Russian manufacturing for many years to come," the speaker said. "Even if the plan is successful, it can only raise the average earning power of the Russian citizen to a figure about one-fourth of that of the American. Russia will absorb its own products until many five-year plans are accomplished."

The meeting was under the chairmanship of J. Bedford Wooley.

GREAT EMANCIPATORS

OVER sixty-five years ago Abraham Lincoln struck the shackles from the limbs of chattel slaves. But the 13th Amendment made no mention of that other, more subtle but equally dismal, form of bondage called "wage slavery."

But once again there comes a champion to the fore—not of flesh but of paper: your Savings Book. It is only with a reserve balance at the Bank to insure independence that a man may lift his nose from the grindstone. Be free. It is better to SAVE than to slave.
